

As established by the Collateral Organizations (ACSA, AIA, AIAS, and NCARB) that have funded the organization since 1940, NAAB provides accreditation services and oversight to ensure architecture programs meet key quality assurance responsibilities.

NAAB At-A-Glance

Accreditation is a peer review process powered by volunteers: 140+ volunteers collectively spend 10,000+ hours each year to conduct NAAB site visits and evaluations.

NAAB currently accredits
175 architecture programs

A TYPICAL YEAR AT NAAB

30

site visits

100+

maintenance reviews

175

annual report reviews

4-6

workshops and trainings

In 2020, with the support of the Collateral Organizations, NAAB embraced a more comprehensive approach to accreditation, one that utilizes outcome-based criteria to assess not only whether a program effectively teaches, but also whether students are learning and demonstrating competency in their area of study.

For more on the future of NAAB, visit <https://www.naab.org/about/priorities-for-the-future/>.